

New Editor for Journal of Small Business Strategy

The Small Business Institute® is pleased to announce that Professor Gerald Hills, Turner Chairholder at Bradley University, has become the new Editor of the Journal of Small Business Strategy (JSBS). The JSBS is a preeminent publication of the SBI and is in its 22nd year of publication. Dr. Hills brings over four decades of experience in academia as a professor of entrepreneurship. He has published more than 100 refereed articles and has written or edited 26 books. In addition to his service to the SBI, Dr. Hills is also cofounder and first President of USASBE, past President of ICSB, and has served for many years on the editorial boards of all the leading entrepreneurship journals.

As Editor, Dr. Hills will be ably supported by Associate Editors Paul Belliveau of Rider University and Bruce Kemelgor of the University of Louisville. Together, they will work with the editorial review board to ensure that JSBS publishes high quality research that is consistent with the mission of the SBI. All three bring a high level of professionalism and enthusiasm to the Journal. As they embark on publishing their first issue, Dr. Hills commented that “this is an opportunity to continue to build on a record of quality regarding JSBS including Tom Lumpkin’s scholarly work in this latest issue.”

The JSBS editorial team invites the submission of new manuscripts, and they look forward to working with both authors and reviewers to create a smooth and timely review process. If you have any questions or wish to submit a manuscript, please visit the JSBS website (www.isbs.org).